As a result, he charged, his wife became hysterical and is now a patient at the state hospital.

Met At Conneaut Lake
The suit further averred that Mrs. Herbold at one time attempted to leap from an automobile and end her life. It was charged that the defendant met Mrs. Herbold 23 years ago at a public dance hall at Conneaut Lake. Bickel lavished gifts on her, corresponded by mail and held "many meetings" in Sharon, Pittsburgh and other places, the husband charged.

The suit averred that in 1933 Bickel suggested they break off the alleged affair and subsequently Mrs. Herbold began failing in health and became highly nervous.
The Herbolds were married July 11, 1903. They have two sons.
Bickel refused to comment but his attorney, George D. Wick, denied the allegations.

Dear Pa News:
Talking to one of our citizens Thursday, he asked me if I could enlighten him on the bird called the bullfinch. The bullfinch is a native of the pine forest of Germany and for many years the male birds have been captured when quite young, and trained in the art of whistling songs. The bullfinch has taken the place of the canary in the homes of England but in the last year or so this bird is making its appearance in the homes of this country. The bullfinch is the greatest mocker of all the bird family and to make a successful whistler the teaching of the bullfinch must be in the hands of a patient teacher.

Registration Officials At Voting Precincts In City Today

BIG ENROLLMENT
INDICATED IN CITY

Getting under way slowly, the percentage of registrations showed an increase today at noon, with indications that the afternoon and evening hours would show a substantial increase. This is the second day for registration in New Castle, and those voters who did not register on August 8 have another opportunity.

There is one more day after today, August 28, but that day will likely be a free-for-all for the late comers. In order to be sure of registration it is urged by leaders of both major parties that voters get out today and get their names on the books.

The primary election on September 17 will be most important. Not alone will the parties name their candidates for office, but the matter of revising the constitution will be up for decision. If there were nothing else, this issue should attract every voter who is alive to the issues of the times.

Polls were open today from eight until 12 and from one until six. They will be open tonight from seven until 10 o'clock and every voter should take advantage of the opportunity.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 17.—Washington and British Columbia aviators familiar with Alaskan air routes today expressed concern over the safety of Joe Crosson when the famous Alaskan "mercy flyer" had not been reported more than six hours after he took off from Point Barrow, Alaska's "Top Of The World," with the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post.

Crosson presumably was heading for Fairbanks, 600 miles southeast of Point Barrow, through fog and rain, although it was thought possible he might go on several hundred miles farther to Anchorage or Seward on the south coast of Alaska.

No News Received.
Airmen here, as the hours passed, asked anxiously for news of Crosson.

TOKYO, Aug. 17.—It is the United States navy, and not those of Europe, which Japan is watching closely and apprehensively, a high navy official told International News Service today, indicating Japan most probably will decline Great Britain's bid to attend informal naval discussions in London this October.

The official Japanese view is that Europe ought to thresh out her own naval problems alone, and that the informal talks will get along nicely without Japan. Japan would, however, be interested in sitting down with the United States and Great Britain alone to settle outstanding issues, it was indicated.

"Japan," International News Service was informed, "is interested in discussions with the United States relating to surface craft, without which airplanes cannot operate over great distances such as exist over the Pacific."

"Japan is apprehensive regarding pronouncements regarding creation of American air bases in the Aleutian Islands and the Pacific. Even though they are to be of commercial nature, they can readily be converted into war bases. This arouses great anxiety in Japanese defense circles."

"American delegates attending any three-power conference must appraise this viewpoint, with which Europeans are not concerned. This concludes our belief the October meeting will not be especially beneficial to Japan and complex problems on the continent."

Recall Some Of Rogers' Better Known Remarks

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—In death the homespun philosophy and humor which made Will Rogers a beloved household name in the United States still remain.

Among some of his better known remarks which were recalled today was one made when commenting on motion pictures and politics.
"I have looked politics and the movies both over and while they have much in common I believe politics is the most common, so I will stay with the movies," Rogers said.

"Will Hays didn't make any mistake. It's hard to give up the old white house, but it would be much harder to take politics seriously." Referring to the late Dwight Morrow, former ambassador to Mexico, Rogers said: "Morrow was the best ambassador that ever lived for he admitted he wasn't one and knew nothing about it."

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Convinced that Premier Benito Mussolini is "stalling" for time, Britain is determined to walk out of the Paris three-power conference if Il Duce insists on military-political control of Abyssinia and does not show himself amenable to a reasonable compromise.

Certainty that British will bolt, throwing the whole Abyssinian dispute in the lap of the League of Nations, was felt in highest diplomatic circles today.

Shook was everywhere expressed that what was expected to be a protracted poker party, with the British and Italians trying to out-bluff each other, was turned, in its second day, into a serious affair, with Britain resolved to make Mussolini refrain from war or place the entire blame on him.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 17.—Bearing the tragically broken bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, an Alaska airways plane piloted by Joe Crosson, the northland's "mercy flyer," took off from Point Barrow today on the first lap of the sad return of the noted humorist and the "round-the-world aviator" to their homes in the "States."

Crosson, who staged a heroic air battle himself on the 600-mile flight into Point Barrow from Fairbanks, headed back along his dangerous route and was expected to reach Fairbanks in four or five hours. Crosson took to the skies at 11:45 p. m. (Alaska time) (1:45 a. m. P.M.)

Thick Weather
The Alaskan pilot was buffeted by the same thick weather in which Rogers and Post perished in a crash in a lagoon in a small river fifteen miles south of Point Barrow Thursday night.

At Fairbanks it is expected the bodies will be transferred to a Pan-American Airways plane, provided through arrangements made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and taken on to Seattle.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
HAMILTON, O., Aug. 17.—Confession that he killed his mother five years ago in Kentucky was made today to Deputy Sheriff Charles Walke by George W. Barrett, Lockland, O., who last night shot and killed Nelson B. Klein, U. S. Department of Justice agent, who sought to arrest him, Walke revealed today.

The slayer fired six .45-caliber bullets at Klein, all of them taking effect. The Department of Justice agent opened fire as he fell, wounding Barrett in the leg.

WARNS CANDIDATES

To Editor of News;
Dear Editor:
Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to warn candidates that farmers resent having their lawns and shade trees littered up with election junk. If we are not worth asking for our vote surely we are not so foolish enough to vote for such candidates.

What we farmers want is men who think of others interest as well as their own.

Yours Truly,

adding he had walked five miles to witness a film in which Will was starred. Said the humorist:
"Shucks I'm not gonna send him an autograph, I'm gonna send him a horse."

When it came to the depression Rogers said:
"We used to be told depression was just a state of mind but starvation has changed that impression. Depression is a state of health. It's moved from the mind to the stomach. And it ain't really depression either. It's just a return to normalcy. We are just getting back to earth and it won't look natural to us any more. We are back to two-bit meals and cotton underwear and off the $1.50 stocks and silk underwears. The trouble with us in America is just muscle-bound from holding a steering wheel. The only place we are caulked from work is the bottom of our driving toe."

ALL HOLLYWOOD MOURNS ROGERS

film capital of the world, and Los Angeles all flew flags at half mast as did every studio.

The grief was all-encompassing. And while Will Rogers never again will walk about his beloved Santa Monica ranch, caress his polo ponies, or talk to friends and cronies, his spirit and personality will continue to live.

In the vaults of Twentieth Century-Fox corporation are two recently completed and as yet unreleased pictures made by Rogers. Just when "Steamboat Round the Bend" and "In Old Kentucky" will be given to world has not been decided. The decision rests with Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of the studio, but it is assured the public will be permitted to see the last work of its favorite.

Hundreds, thousands of kindly acts of humanity spoken truths were recited today as Hollywood awaited the day when it can pay its profound and heart-felt tribute to its friend.

It was Rogers, who when the promoters of Beverly Hills were planning the site of the city that now boasts of many of filmdom's most ornate mansions, who said:
"You're talking about polo fields. I can't say much about that now, but there is one thing Beverly Hills needs and that's a church."

rection of New Castle. The car was badly wrecked and Wallace was rushed by ambulance to the Jameson Memorial hospital, and was taken to the emergency room where he remained in a physician's care throughout the morning. At noon the hospital reported that his condition was "fair."

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Long, whose home is at 316 Shaw street, were reported to be enroute to Youngstown, O., at the time of the accident. They had taken the Pinchot road from New Castle to the Harbor. At the railroad crossing near the bridge, Long saw the oncoming train but Wallace did not. It is believed that the latter slipped on the brakes of the car, however, at the last minute, for there were signs of skidding on the road.

The engineer of the freight train was L. E. Reid, of McKees Rocks. The train was enroute from Fernon Junction to McKees Rocks, on Erie tracks.

The state highway patrol of New Castle was notified immediately and launched an investigation.

but none had been received, either from private sources or the coast guard of army signal corps. The coast guard is relaying radio dispatches from its ships in northern waters to Washington, D. C., while the signal corps is likewise sending home to the department dispatches received over its cable, the only commercial information lane into Alaska.

Crosson took a little more than five hours flying into Point Barrow from Fairbanks against a strong head wind.

He apparently left Point Barrow at either 1:45 a. m. (PST) or 3 a. m. the first figure given out by the coast guard here, the latter by the signal corps.

Airmen figure that with a tail wind he should have been at Fairbanks in less than five hours, or about 7 or 8 a. m. (PST).

When he was an hour and a half past that mark with no word received here, the concern spread to the signal corps office.

The officers there felt they should have received word from some point concerning his progress.

LOCKE FAMILIES HOLD REUNION

The Audley Locke farm near Harlansburg, was the scene of a gay gathering Thursday when members of the Locke families assembled for their annual reunion. Locke, of Franklin, president; Thomas Ellis Locke, of Plaingrove, vice president; D. C. Locke, of Monaca, historian; Alma Locke, of New Castle, secretary and treasurer. At this time, D. C. ### ROGERS AND POST

IN HER inscrutable fashion Fate has again reached out and removed from American life two of its most noted figures, Will Rogers, humorist and actor, and Wiley Post, ace flier. Up under the Arctic Circle at the furthestmost tip of Alaska the pair crashed when their plane missed at a fifty feet altitude.

No mere words of regret can properly express the sorrow of the world at the tragic death of these two noted figures. Rogers, the high priest of humor, and Post, the man who had spanned the world twice in his airplane, had both added to the happiness and knowledge of the world. By his unique method of expression Rogers had become a household word. By his daring feats of aviation Post had demonstrated the possibility of rapid transportation.

Their untimely death will bring varied reactions. There are those who will renew their opposition to aviation, but the death of Rogers and Post merely proves the need for further research in aero dynamics in order to further eliminate the hazard of flying.

Will Rogers was the self-styled "Ambassador of Good Will" and well he earned the title. His visits to the other nations of the world did more to promote good feeling than all the work of beribboned plenipotentiaries. He was of the common people, he knew their language, he voiced their emotions, he never lost the common touch. He can not be replaced for there was but one Will Rogers.

His last message to the newspapers he represented came from the pioneer camp in Alaska. In his inimitable way he painted a clearer picture of conditions there than could have been done by a congressional investigating commission.

All he knew was what he "read in the papers" to quote his own language. But his was a vaster knowledge. He knew how to bring smiles into a land where smiling has been uncommon for some time. With a few words he transformed gloom into cheer. Now that he has gone, a martyr to the mode of transportation over which he enthused so often the American people have lost one of their first citizens.

Wiley Post deserved a better fate. Apparently he was one of the few fliers who had conquered the elements, at least in part. Hero of a score of stirring aviation adventures, he was the victim of the machine that had brought his fame.

America mourns their passing, but the entire world joins in that mourning. Both of them were too big to be circumscribed by geographical boundaries. They belonged to the world, and the world has lost them.

WHAT A COINCIDENCE!

It is possibly just a coincidence that Ohio's Governor Davey should decide definitely against a special election to fill a Congressional vacancy immediately after he was given the White House blessing and assurance of a $20,000,000 PWA allotment.

It also is possible that the election issue was not discussed during his pleasant interview with the President, that the conversation treated wholly of such non-partisan affairs as, for instance, first-aid for a sickly plum tree.

No one can be blamed, however, for adding two and two and finding that the result is the inevitable four. And when one perceives Governor Davey, whose breach with the administration over relief matters was violent, welcomed back to the fold with loud huzzahs and the bestowal of lavish millions; perceives, too, that the sequel to all this is the governor's announcement that, court order or no court order, he will not call an election to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Representative-at-large Truax, one conclusion seems inescapable:

That the Democratic administration, still groggy from that Rhode Island sock in the eye, is running away hot-foot from the Ohio contest which would submit the New Deal to the perils of a cross-section vote in that pivotal state.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

POSTERITY

You may remember the classic "boner" made by a member of the British parliament when, in the course of a debate, he exclaimed: "Posterity! Posterity! Why all this talk about posterity? What has posterity ever done for us?"

It is unfortunate that too many persons in this country today are inclined to take this same view of the situation.

The truth of the matter is that posterity has done much for us. We are yesterday's posterity. And we ought to be thankful again and again for what they accomplished, for that which they left for us to enjoy. By the same token, we are just as much obligated to plan for the future as we are to accept the blessings of the past. We are duty bound to hear the voice of the coming generations to meet their needs, and to win their praise for our efforts.

It depends largely on us whether our children and our grandchildren are going to have an ordered government to live under and stable institutions to enjoy. They cannot do so unless we make this government a success and these institutions effective.

Whether coming generations have any faith worthy of the name depends on us. We must plan the future wisely and well. How are we going to discharge this tremendous obligation?

You can get vaccinated against every fatal malady except fool drivers.

A periodic depression is necessary. If people kept on prospering, they would get too deeply in debt.

Soon we will be able to find out, through the experience of the Conquering Lion of Judah, just what's in a name.

John Hays Hammond, Jr. has invented a device to eliminate the scratching noise from phonograph records. A good idea but a decade late.

A special prosecutor investigating New York's rackets has asked all citizens to turn G-men and come to his aid. We know of lots of small boys who will gladly comply with first request.

THE SNOB'S DELUSION

The snob perceives a difference between you and him. He thinks that difference is important.

He believes it is entirely in his favor.

It may be a difference of taste, judgment, intelligence, education, luck, earning power, family or opportunity. Whatever it is, he loves that difference, treasures it—builds his life around it.

Take this little difference away—and he is lost. His foundations are crumbled, his security, his happiness is gone. For he has nothing else on which to build his life.

He thinks that differences between men are vertical...one above the other. If he went to college and you didn't—if he plays a good game of bridge and you don't care for that pleasure—if he reads books and you play golf—if he plays golf and you work in the garden—if he is an atheist and you go to church—if he's a city man and you're a farmer—or if he's a recent Englishman and your ancestors came from England two centuries ago—then by some obscure process of what he calls thinking the Snob places himself above you.

Never once in his little life has it occurred to the Snob that life CAN be on a horizontal plane and the difference between him (or her) and you might possibly be simple variations in the human species.

If he could see this just ONCE, and see it honestly and squarely, he might win more happiness out of life than he has ever known...Failing to see it, he is forever condemned to the miserable complacency that is no more than a confectionist patting of oneself on the back.

HONEST DIFFERENCES OF OPINION SHOULD BE RESPECTED

Isn't it true that you do not give a person credit for good sense unless he thinks as you do?

If people live up to your standards they are all right.

You are not averse to saying outright that this one or that is "silly." It might surprise you to know that meanwhile you are being appraised.

You may be considered deficient in ways that you may never suspect.

There is so much in a point of view.

You may be naturally narrow and biased in your appraisements of others.

At the same time, those who disagree with your standards may be very broad and strictly fair in their deductions.

It is a well-known fact that those who most frequently complain of others as being without good judgment are themselves weak in the same way.

A defective mind thinks himself normal and all others abnormal.

A man of sense is willing to admit that he has no corner on brains.

He knows that an honest difference of opinion among men is a normal condition that calls for understanding.

BEWARE RUBBER

Young ladies who are expert swimmers and who go in for aquaplaning on the smooth waters of inland lakes, should be very careful about the quality of their bathing suits and they should particularly avoid rubber suits. Witness what happened on Lake Arrowhead in the San Bernardino Mountains of California.

An aquaplaning contest was in full swing recently on the lake and one Bill Hackley was piloting his fast speed boat around the course with a very comely lass in tow, riding one of the boards.

When Bill rounded the buoy near the shore where hundreds of spectators were watching the contest, he noticed them all cheering and waving—but he couldn't imagine what all the demonstration was about.

He looked back to make sure that the young lady had rounded the turn all right and to his amazement discovered she was sans a bathing suit!

Her rubber suit had split under the strain of riding the board at high speed and she couldn't let go because the boat was going too fast! Bill headed for the middle of the lake and slowed down, whereupon the crimson-faced young lady dove into the waters under a suit was brought her from shore!

The customer in the grocery was hopping mad because he had got his clothes all covered with paint. "Didn't you see that sign saying 'Fresh Paint'?" inquired the grocer. "Yes," said the victim, "but I had seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh which wasn't that I didn't believe it."

This one, contributed by a reader, is worthy of a place in your scrap book:

THE PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE
Did it ever occur to you that a man's life is full of crosses and temptations? He comes into this world without his consent and goes out of it against his will, and the trip between is exceedingly rocky.

When he is little, the big girls kiss him. If he is big the little girls kiss him. If he is poor, he is a bad manager; if he is rich, he is dishonest. If he needs credit, he can't get it; if he is prosperous, everyone wants to do him a favor.

If he is in politics, it is for graft; if he is out of politics, he is no good to his country. If he does not give to charity, he is a stingy cuss; if he does, it is for show. If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner. If he gives affection, he is a soft specimen; if he cares for no one, he is cold-blooded. If he dies young, it may be a great future before him; if he lives to an old age he missed his calling.

If you save money you're a grouch. If you spend it you're a loafer. If you get it, you're a grafter. If you can't get it, you are a bum—So what the hell's the use?

Abundance Of Money.
Plea Of Union Men.

Central Press
New York Bureau

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The list of lawyers who have received huge fees from utilities companies to represent them in Washington this year reads like a who's who of bar-risters. The senate lobby investigating committee has the list.

The $75,000 retainers seem numerous.

One thing seems certain—President Roosevelt will name none of these lawyers federal judges. (And that includes the highly-prized surprised supreme court.)

But there are plenty of federal district judges on the bench now who were utilities company lawyers in the past. And they are there for life.

CORRECTION
This column said some days ago that motion picture operators for some companies in New York received blank agreements to be signed individually agreeing to a 10 per cent wage cut or "agreeing" to quit if they would not accept. The wage cut was 41 per cent, not 10 per cent.

MONEY, MONEY EVERYWHERE!
Yes, there is too much money piled up in banks, not working, for the public good. Idle money means poverty, plus an invitation to speculation. Large bank deposits are no criterion of wealth.

There are at least three reasons for this plethora of idle cash:

1. The government floats large loans, the banks buy the securities, the money is deposited in the banks. The banks, of course, earn on this "government business"—but it is a sort of static earning. It is not money that comes from production, but money that comes from other borrowing or from taxes.

2. Large corporations have cash piling up. Trade still does not warrant large capital investments. Some of those deficits of which you have been reading have been produced by depreciation writeoffs.

3. The greater user of cash, legitimately, is trade. Money is the medium of exchange for trade. Trade is wealth. Trade still is bound up by a thousand and one unnatural laws, which hold in check the operation of natural laws.

THE SITUATION
The money situation, as the financial column of the New York Sun sees it, is:

OPPOSES BOND ISSUE

Editor News:—
Our city paper, The New Castle News, in its issue of Monday, August 12, contains a copy of an ordinance introduced in our city council by Mr. Davies for the purpose of submitting to the voters of New Castle at the coming election, asking the voters of the city to "yes" or "no" vote to give their consent that will authorize the city council to borrow one and a half millions of dollars (the ordinance reads fifteen hundred thousand), thereby increasing the city's indebtedness by 1½ millions, for the purpose of acquiring, building and operating a municipally owned electric light plant.

An astounding proposition, when we consider the industrial and business stagnation that has hit the residents of New Castle, and particularly the over-burdened property owners, with their depreciated values, struggling to keep their life's savings invested in homes not yet paid for, and in constant fear of the sheriff. Taxes in arrears, cost of street or other improvements filed against their property and already feeling the sting of the cruel penalty lash, insurance must be kept up, their families to clothe and feed, regular monthly bills to pay, and the prospects for work or business down to zero.

I see by this same ordinance that we are at the present time paying interest on borrowed money to the extent of $27,000 which with the proposed increase of indebtedness of $1,500,000 will amount to the enormous sum of 2 million 427 thousand dollars ($2,427,000). These figures are the city's debt only and does not include $752,000 of a county debt on which, Mr. Taxpayer, also pay your share of interest.

These figures mean nothing to the non-property owning voter. Unfortunately during the boom days within the past 15 years, the citizens of New Castle, like many other communities, thought prosperity had come to stay, so we started on a building streak, and as a reminder let me mention a few of them: Ben Franklin school and stadium, George Washington, Arthur McGill, Rose avenue schools and senior high extension, extensive street paving sewers. Also other projects are being paid for directly or indirectly by the taxpayers which are not included in the city's report. Highland U. P. church, First U. P., Epworth M. E., St. Mary's churches, also the Catholic church, Castleton and many homes. Yet in the face of this imposing list of debts you are going to be asked to allow your city council to borrow $1,500,000 and for which you, your children and grandchildren without their consent will have to pay interest. This borrowed money is to be used for experimental purposes, and if it is used for the purpose they propose and if it is successful without additional loans.

To acquire, build, install and render profitable service, it will require several years, and by that time our savings will be swept away and our homes taken by the sheriff for failure to pay the interest on this monstrous loan. The sad and extremely unjust part of this situation is that every person, native born or otherwise, who has a vote, can vote you, I and every property owner into debt. His vote counts as much as yours, and if the voters who don't own a foot of property outnumber the property owners, you, Mr. Taxpayer, pay the debt, but "he" can receive a dole, also at your expense. The said ordinance will be up before the city council for final passage Monday, Sept. 9, at 10 a. m. So wake up, taxpayers, and get busy, protest and require every candidate for office to declare his stand on this question, let him know the taxpayers have a moral right to exclusively decide this kind of question regardless of whether the law or politicians recognize it or not. This is a most serious situation.

We are fighting for our homes, and the interest of our children. So wake up!

EDWARD CHILDERS, 714 Blaine St., City. New Castle, Pa., Aug. 15, 1935.

Editor of News:—

I notice in your paper of the issue raised on the rights of marriage and the refusal of license to parties on relief.

Let me forget, I quote Jesus on natural law and surely we can go to no higher authority: "If two of you agree on earth touching anything it shall be done unto you."

Under this injunction the granting of license becomes a matter of recording the contract only.

The state in its refusal automatically acknowledges its defeat to material conditions of life. A study of eugenics and birth control movements are the efforts of people who are too cowardly to face the economic aspects of family life who sit on the bleachers giving advice to others while living a suppressed existence to conform to an artificial standard of economic life.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. August 16, four arrests on charges as follows: Drunk—3 and Vagrancy 1.

Deed has been returned by the city an Dan and Ellen Sullivan for land in Crescent avenue. They gave the land to the city providing certain changes were made in that section. The city officials decided the changes which would require a home will would be too costly, hence the return of the deed.

City Solicitor White has approved a refund by council of a portion of dance permit fees for the month of July to certain places which sell beer and permit dancing. The money has not been returned, however, to the proprietors due to Controller Earl Wimer's stand that he does not believe the refund recommended would be legally. It was intimated some months ago that mandamus proceedings would be brought against Wimer. The suit has not materialized.

City of New Castle firemen's payroll will be increased per year about $8,000, by the employment of six new firemen Friday. They will start to work Monday. It is probable that when another list of eligibles is secured another fireman will be named. The number of firemen, including the chief and assistant chief, now numbers 48. The police department will also be increased but to what extent is unknown. A radio technician to take care of the radio system and instruction of operators will be employed, it is said.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

Members of the Y's Men's club of the Y. M. C. A. will hold an outing on Thursday, August 29 to launch its work for the fall and winter season. President James E. Chambers announced today. The club discussed business matters this week.

Sid Lockley, who succeeds Chambers as president shortly, is selecting his new committees at the present time. Several already have been named.

Active in civic matters, the Y's Men, a local branch of a large international organization, promotes considerable work at the Margaret L. Henry Children's home during the year. The home receives its constant attention and each week delegations visit it to conduct programs of one sort or another.

PHALANX ACTIVE AGAIN

Idle since the last of June, members of the Phalanx fraternity met again this week for an outing at Camp Fred L. Rents of the Y. M. C. A.

Plans are being made for the continuation of weekly gatherings until the opening of the regular meeting season on September 4. During July the meetings were discontinued.

General Jacob S. Coxey, who has lived many active years, has never found anything economically right. But hope must not be abandoned.

Guardsmen Reach Training Camp To Start Maneuvers

Approximately 15,000 Pennsylvania And Maryland National Guards At Mt. Gretna

(International News Service) INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 17.—A steady rumbling of heavy trucks and the roar of railroad trains ended the quietness of the National Guard encampment here and at Mt. Gretna today as 15,000 men in uniform streamed into the reservations for a two-week training period.

Preliminary cleaning up preparations gave way to the more intensive work of hoisting tents and doling out supplies as company after company of Pennsylvania and Maryland National Guardsmen moved into the camp.

About 15,000 in Camp A dozen special trains and several hundred trucks were used to convey the guardsmen from all parts of Maryland to the twin reservations in the valleys on Lebanon county mountains. Units from points farthest away had been on the move since yesterday.

Approximately 9,000 Pennsylvania guardsmen, all units except the Cavalry, were to be at Indiantown Gap, together with several companies of the regular U. S. Army. ## BODIES OF POST AND WILL ROGERS ENROUTE SOUTH little colony—a few white men, faces seared from the north's icy blasts, and a group of swarthy, stocky Eskimos.

To these people in their frigid home at the "top of the world," the warmest of white Americans, their latest touch with distant civilization was a saga of tragedy. They had prepared for a noted wit and his reception pilot, only to have their fate turned into an observance of death.

Wait Fairbanks Arrival Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 17.—As a crowd of Fairbanks citizens fearfully scanned the cold horizon today for Joe Crosson, flying the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post from Point Barrow, an official at the airport said the bodies would be taken on by plane as quickly as possible to the homes of the two men.

The flight will be made to Los Angeles where Rogers' body will be taken off. Post's will be taken on to Oklahoma. The airport official said he did not know how far Crosson would fly his Alaska Airways craft with its tragic burden, but assumed that Alaska "mercy flyer" would go on if he is not too exhausted by his flight against adverse weather on the 1,200-mile round trip flight to Point Barrow.

Coast Guard To Aid Washington, Aug. 17.—Orders have been issued to the coast guard cutters Tallapoosa and Northland, now in Alaskan waters, to proceed at once to Nome and render all possible assistance in returning the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post to Seattle, the coastguard headquarters announced here today. The orders were to the coastguard headquarters in San Francisco, which directed the cutters to proceed to Nome and await the arrival in eastern Alaska of Joe Crosson, Alaska's "mercy" flyer, who will fly the bodies back from Point Barrow to Fairbanks.

Will Probe Crash Washington, Aug. 17.—While the country mourned its loss a special senate commerce committee went into executive session today to map out plans for an investigation into the cause of the air crash that took the life of Will Rogers and Wiley Post.

The committee known as the Commerce Committee for Air Safety, laid routine business aside and considered the meager facts available on the tragedy that occurred near Pt. Barrow, Alaska. Senator Copeland (D., New York), chairman of the committee, told International News Service the committee will confer with members of the Department of Commerce and other air officials to gather what facts there are on the crash. "The committee will make a thorough study of the crash," said Copeland.

Ask Permit From Canada Washington, Aug. 17.—The State Department today sent a formal request to the Canadian government for permission for a Pan-American Airways plane to fly over Canadian territory with the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post.

The State Department took this action at the request of Juan T. Trippe, president of the Pan-American Airways. Trippe advised the State Department that Joseph Crosson, Alaska's "mercy" flyer, was returning the bodies by Pan-American Airways and that he was due to arrive at Juneau, Alaska, at two p. m. E. S. T. today.

Immediately upon receipt of Trippe's request the State Department put in a long distance call to American Minister Norman H. Armour at Ottawa, permission. Armour was instructed to convey the following message to the Canadian government:

"At the request of Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Post, we are arranging for a Pan-American System plane to return to the United States from Alaska the bodies of their distinguished husbands. The proposed route through Canada just will be followed with your permission from Fairbanks, Alaska, will be via Burwash Landing, White Horse, Telegraph Creek and Point Grey. The plane which will be used will be a twin-engine, Electra type transport under the command of Senior Pilot J. E. Crosson.

Prepared For Burial Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 17.—Another epic of the air in the frozen northland was being played out today as a sequel to the tragic crash which claimed the lives of Wiley Post, noted flyer, and Will Rogers, beloved humorist. Joe Crosson, Alaska's "mercy pilot," flying a Pacific Alaska Airways plane, battled his way through fog and wind from Fairbanks to Point Barrow to take the bodies of Post and Rogers back to civilization and the legions who wait to pay homage at their biers.

In the meantime, the two bodies rested in a wooden hut behind the Presbyterian Mission hospital here—a little but rudely constructed of rough boards, but watched over with sorrow and respect by a handful of Eskimos and the few white persons who live at Point Barrow, the "top of the world" and northernmost point of the United States.

The humorist, who won his country's love by his sly and witty comments on events of the day, and the great adventurer of the air who was piloting him on a leisurely tour of the frozen tundras, were guarded in their last sleep by two natives of the country.

A dark skinned Eskimo stood at the foot of the pine table on which the bodies lay. Another Eskimo stood at the head. They took up their morning vigil, they said, because "these two men loved Alaska and we loved them."

Alaska Mourns Dr. Henry Griest, medical missionary here, prepared the bodies for their return. As he worked, there were tears in his eyes, and tears were the cheeks of the Eskimos. "We are sorry," Dr. Griest said, "that Alaska should claim the lives of these two men Alaska knew and admired."

Pilot, Joe Crosson who gained his sobriquet "the mercy flyer" by bringing in serum to ice-bound towns beset by disease, intended to take the bodies of Post and Rogers back to Fairbanks, Juneau and then on to Seattle, where the bodies of Rogers and Post were badly smashed.

"Every bone in their bodies was broken," he said sadly. Another near-victim of the tragedy was Claire Okpeke, an Eskimo who ran the twelve miles to Point Barrow from the scene of the crash, a small lagoon formed by a river south of here.

Okpeke, suffering from exhaustion, was under the care of Dr. Griest. He was prostrated, but the missionary said he expected the Eskimo to recover.

"However," said Dr. Griest, "another mile and Okpeke probably would have been added to the tragic role. He was almost dead when he arrived."

Tells Crash Story The Eskimo brought the complete story of the crash. He said that Post and Rogers in the flyer's new trim red and gray monoplane landed on the lagoon late Thursday when they lost their way in fog.

They talked with a group of Eskimos on shore, at dinner, and then they took their way to the Point Barrow. The Eskimos said Post was but a few miles away and pointed out the route that should have taken the visiting plane to its destination.

"The plane's motor," said Okpeke, "was missing, but Post decided anyway to try and make it. He tinkered with the motor while he was with us. He put the water (the craft) in the water (the lagoon) and had been equipped toward a hill (Seattle) and on one side of the stream, which was on one side of the stream, when the plane was about fifty feet in the air, it shot up quickly. Post was trying to clean the propeller. The motor sputtered and then it turned over on its back and shot down. It twisted slightly and hit the water on its nose. The crash was terrific."

Removed Rogers' Body Okpeke saved several of his Eskimo companions waded into the lagoon and removed Rogers' body through a window in the plane. But Post's body was crushed against the motor and it was necessary to hack the plane nearly to pieces with an axe to recover it.

The body of the flyer was taken out by Stanley R. Morgan, a sergeant in the U. S. Signal corps here. He was the first person that Okpeke met.

"Quickly, quickly, come—the plane has fallen," the Eskimo gasped to the sergeant. Morgan immediately recruited a party which hastened down the river in two boats.

The bodies were brought to Point Barrow in a launch belonging to David Brower, son of Charles D. Brower. The elder Brower is the International News Service correspondent at Point Barrow and the man whom Rogers was enroute to see when he was killed.

The humorist told friends at Fairbanks that he wanted to talk about "Old Alaska" with Brower, who is known as the "King of the Arctic" because of his fifty one years of residence in the cold north. He operates a trading post at the Point Barrow settlement and for decades has been among the famous fur hunters of the north.

Rogers was told if he wanted to hear the real romance, danger and thrill of the north to go and talk with Brower.

Ostracism For All Jewish Art

Nazi Government Orders Strict Ostracism For Jewish Arts And Artists

(International News Service) BERLIN, Aug. 17.—Taking a strong stand in its campaign to drive the Jews of Germany into modern ghettos, the Nazi government today ordered a virtual ostracism of all Jewish art and artists throughout the country.

Following close upon the widely heralded invasion of the capital by Julius Streicher, arch-priest of anti-Semitism, and consequent segregation of Jews in nearly every walk of life, the government issued a drastic five-point decree which in effect will mean "Jewish art for Jews only."

The decree was issued simultaneously with the order from Minister of the Interior Wilhelm Frick regarding the Jews in nearly every walk of life, the government issued a drastic five-point decree which in effect will mean "Jewish art for Jews only."

The anti-Semitic decree lists a series of five "rules and directions" for Jewish artists. One word, "Jewish," is drawn up by a special "cultural commissar" for Jewish art pointed by Minister of Propaganda Paul Joseph Goebbels. The decree was published by the secret state police, who will enforce it.

Mrs. Wiley Post To Get Valuable Stamp Collection

(International News Service) HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 17.—As a "nest egg" for his wife in event of his death, Wiley Post, killed with Will Rogers in Alaska, left a trunk containing 400-odd envelopes, or "covers" as they are known to stamp collectors, postmarked of various places on his first round-the-world flight with Harold Gatty, it became known here today.

Early this year he sold one to a collector for $50. Post was unable to obtain life insurance.

Senator Glass Is Quite Happy

Victor In Battle Over Banking Legislation

(International News Service) Washington, Aug. 17.—Peppery little Senator Carter Glass of Virginia was chuckling today—a habit to which he has become addicted in recent weeks.

Glass was a district victor in the newly settled senate-house tug-of-war over banking legislation. President Roosevelt ordered the bill in one form, and it attained its final stage almost exactly in the form desired by the diminutive senator from Virginia. This form, incidentally, was a far step from that demanded by Mr. Roosevelt.

One word, from the president, so to speak, and the senate-house conferees did as Carter Glass pleased. House conferees' acceptance of the draft sponsored by the senate conferees today insured that it would not delay adjournment of congress, which leaders are hoping for on Tuesday night. Senate conferees, of course, are more than satisfied. In the main, the bill represents the views they expressed when they took the legislation drafted and passed by the house, and mounded it to suit themselves.

Ogden L. Mills Hits Policies Of Roosevelt

(International News Service) CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Denouncing Roosevelt policies, Ogden L. Mills, mentioned as a Republican presidential candidate, today declared in a speech before the Chautauqua Institution that the new deal "is the wedge for application of the coercive system to free America."

"This American system of ours is now being undermined," Mills said. "Unless arrested the process now under way will transform our country into a society organized on the basis of coercion, under which individual responsibility will be transferred to the state and individual freedom subordinated to the authority of the government."

"This is the supreme issue that confronts the American people. 'I cannot accept the explanation that the new deal is composed of a series of individual actions intended merely to meet an emergency. The pattern is too uniform; the tenacity with which the central objective is pursued too persistent; the impatience with any and all obstacles to its attainment too marked; and the determination to push forward, even as the emergency wanes, too obvious to permit any such interpretation.'

"If any doubt remained, the president's remarkable press interview after the N. R. A. decision must have dispelled it. If the constitution stands in the way of the new deal, then amend the constitution. If the supreme court remains faithful to its duties, let the supreme court beware."

Two Measures On "Must" List

White House Demands Action On Two Measures Before Adjournment

GUFFEY COAL BILL IS ONE DEMANDED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—As the long congressional session waned, two measures designed to salvage something of the wreckage of NRA today when definitely placed on the White House "Must" list.

They are the Walsh bill requiring government contractors and borrowers to meet NRA wages and hours and the Guffey-Snyder coal bill setting up a "Little NRA" for the soft coal industry.

The Roosevelt administration, it was stated on high authority, will use all of its influence to break down the stubborn resistance which threatens both measures.

The Walsh bill, which passed the senate in the face of opposition from original foes of NRA, is before the house judiciary committee. A hearing is scheduled for Monday.

The bill is far-reaching. Its provisions include:

Firms seeking government contracts must show that they maintained NRA wages and hours from the effective date of the act, which is 30 days after the president approves it.

The president can write minimum wage and hours provisions into contracts. Contracts can be required to exact agreements from sub-contractors to maintain the wages and hours. The bill even goes to the production of raw materials.

Both RFC and federal reserve loans to industries are embraced in its scope. Industries borrowing money must comply with conditions.

Flying over a remote region in Alaska, 15 miles south of Point Barrow, Will Rogers, noted actor and humorist, and Wiley Post, famous around-the-world flyer, met death when a new plane, pictured above, crashed to earth. Signal corps officers confirmed the report that the bodies had been recovered from the wreckage and removed to Point Barrow. The plane in which the two—Rogers, an aviation enthusiast, and Post, veteran pilot—were killed, was a new ship which replaced Post's Winnie Mae, in which he flew around the world.

Puppet Show At Dufford's Store

Performances Will Be Given
On Monday And Tuesday
Afternoons

An interesting and educational entertainment is promised all who attend the exhibition of the Norge puppet show where a complete playlet will be presented at 2 p. m., on Monday and Tuesday of next week, according to Vern Dufford of W. F. Dufford & Co., Norge dealers here.

"We are fortunate in securing one of the finest troupes in the country for this showing," said Mr. Dufford, "which will feature the largest marionettes in existence, being five-twelfths human size. A complete dramatic playlet, 'All in a Lifetime' adapted from the successful stage play by James A. Sterling, advertising and merchandising manager of the Norge organization, will be given at each showing, depicting the use values of Norge products. Miniatures of the Norge Rollator refrigerator, range and washer, beautiful and complete to the last detail are used for the background of the play. We are offering this puppet show as a gesture of appreciation to housewives who have so enthusiastically received our previous entertainment offerings, and for the outstanding preference shown here for Norge products. An added attraction designed especially for children who always thoroughly enjoy puppet shows, will be several short comedy features, including 'The Three Little Pigs,' juggling acts, imitations of famous movie stars, and other acts. Monday afternoon is Kiddie Day. All must be accompanied by mothers.

"Reports received from other cities where this puppet show has been exhibited indicate an unusual amount of interest. This is not the usual tiny stage and equipment, but utilizes an 8 foot stage with complete scenery background and a crew of trained operators. Because of its size and amusing dramatic action, we anticipate a capacity crowd, and urge all those who wish to attend to arrange to be there early. Admission is free, with the compliments of our organization," Mr. Dufford concluded.

Fourth Flight

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, August 17.—Jack Kraft reigned today as king of district amateur golfers after battling his way to victory over a clubmate, Freddie Weppner of the Pittsburgh Field Club, in an extra-hole final round of the western Pennsylvania amateur golf tourney.

Kraft won, 1 up in 19 holes, but not until he had been escorted through one of the closest matches ever seen at the South Hills Country club course where the championship was played. Weppner, trailing 1-down most of the way, evened the score in the home stretch, but lost out after a hard try on the extra hole when he took five strokes to Kraft's four.

THOMPSON-MCKEE WIN

R. W. Thompson of New Castle won the second consolation flight by defeating Rupert Friday of Pittsburgh Field Club 2 and 1. Herm Green was defeated by Herb Miller, Jr., of Nemacolin 2 and 1. In the fourth flight semi-finals C. W. McKee of New Castle upset W. W. "Bill" Duff of New Castle 4 and 2 and then took the championship of the fourth flight by defeating Jess Cross of South Hills 3 and 2.

In the championship consolation matches George Trainor of New Castle won by default from Dr. Tom Cannon, and then lost to Regis Wolff of Pitt 4 and 2 in the finals.

City Solicitor Gives Opinion On Muny Light Plant Survey

R. M. White, solicitor for the city presented to council at city hall on Friday an opinion in which he said the council has been urged to employ engineers to report to council what it would cost to build or acquire a municipal electric distribution plant. White reports that certain engineers have indicated that they would make such a report for $2,500.

He wrote that there is a plant here, not generally considered to be too large or too elaborate for the needs of the city, nor is there any complaint that it is too small or inconvenient. He reports that it is satisfying all of the needs and wants of this community for electric service and adds the only complaint is that the service costs more than it should.

He said that in voting for or against the bond issue in November, the voter must answer only one question, viz: "Do you want the city to own the electric distribution plant which now exists in New Castle, or one like it?" To answer the question intelligently the voter need only know facts as follows:

What would it cost to reproduce the existing system?
What would it cost to operate that system for a year?
What would be the probable revenues of that system for a year?

"These facts you have, absolutely, because Burns & McDonnell have made a complete survey of the existing system and an appraisal of it and have reported their figures to you (council), to wit:

1.—The reproduction cost of the distribution system in the city, according to the survey and appraisal of Burns & McDonnell, is $1,183,570.

2.—The value of the said plant, as it now exists, is $1,058,124.

3.—The anticipated expenses and revenues of the Pennsylvania Power company in the city for the year

1935, based on studies of the expenses and revenues for 1932, 1933 and 1934, are as follows:
Revenues, $874,000; operating expenses, $523,000; taxes, $30,000; depreciation and return, $201,000, or a total of $754,000 and excess earnings, according to the survey, $120,000.

The opinion says there are these facts which would materially decrease the cost of a municipally owned plant:

1.—The local plant is larger than is necessary to furnish New Castle alone; 2, there are included in the costs which go to make up the above valuations many items that would not have to be built by the city.

White said Burns & McDonnell made reports to Akron and Knoxville, regarding the probable cost of complete electric plants, probable operating costs and revenues. He said the Akron report was made after the people had voted to build a plant, and not before the election. Referring to the Akron report, White says:

The survey and recommendation is based upon three different possibilities of use and demand and two different possibilities of method of financing. He says this makes six different results in round figures in the cost to the taxpayer to build a municipal plant in Akron: $13,000,000; $15,000,000; $14,000,000; $12,000,000; $10,500,000 and $9,000,000.

He reports these figures are for the building of a complete generating and distribution plant.

White points out that "it is apparent, therefore, that this survey, if it had been made before the election, would not have given the taxpayers of Akron any definite information."

The survey was based on past experiences that Akron was an industrial center and had grown and would continue to grow. Such an assumption in New Castle might be misleading, the opinion stated. He said also that it was based upon the fact that it was made during a depression and that estimates were correct. The report further relied entirely for its information as to be derived therefrom on the figures obtained from the existing electric company.

Although it does not apply to New Castle, White opined, it is interesting to know that at Akron the engineers had to consider at least three different sites where they could build their generating plant and obtain their power. He said they were from one to 200 miles apart. The opinion said the final selection would vary the possibilities of cost.

He then reports on the Knoxville report. He says it contains the same contingencies. He reports the condition here would be no different from that in Akron and Knoxville, except that here it would be necessary for engineers to consider the very source of supply from which energy might be purchased.

White says the proposed survey and report would cost $2,500 and could not possibly give council or the voters any information except what they now have and he further says he cannot recommend the expenditure of the money. He says that if the vote shows the people favor a municipal distribution system, the council then will have a mandate to secure the best engineering advice obtainable to carry out the will of the people.

He reports the Electric Consumers' league is not satisfied with the form of the ordinance which has been introduced to provide for an election on the municipal ownership question. He says that the ordinance is drawn in the form prescribed by act of legislature. He says no other form can be used. To add to the form might destroy the effectiveness of the election and prevent the sale of bonds because the form would not be according to the legislative act.

One objection is that the ordinance specifies that before the bonds are issued a tax shall be levied to pay them and the money realized from the tax shall go into the sinking fund. This is required by state act. The proponents of the bond issue say that it is intended that the bonds shall be paid off from the profits of the municipal plant and White believes that that is correct. "Nevertheless," White's opinion says "there is no provision in the act to allow bonds to be issued on any other credit than that of a tax levy."

If a municipal plant is profitable the profits derived will be devoted to the repayment of the bonds and it will not be necessary to fall back upon the tax levy provided for by the act and that the tax levy would never go into effect, White's opinion said. However, if not profitable and the proceeds are not sufficient to pay the bonds, the commonwealth requires that the taxing power of the city secure the payment of the bonds when they are due.

The solicitor then details the procedure required to purchase or build an electric distribution plant, if the people want it; 1, it would be necessary to pass a further ordinance which would provide for the actual issuance of the bonds necessary to build the plant; 2, prescribe when the bonds were to be dated, denomination, date due, interest to be paid on them, purpose for which they were to be issued; how they were to be sold, paid for and how retired, when due.

The ordinance would prescribe that the profits from the plant should be paid into the sinking fund to retire the bonds and under act of assembly, to provide that if revenues from the plant were not sufficient to meet the interest and payments on the bonds, that the same should be paid by taxation.

Before the council could offer bonds for sale, it would be advisable to go before the Public Service commission, set out the people voted in favor of a plant and request permission to acquire or build a plant. If this were granted the council would have to decide what size plant the city wanted and they would probably have to employ engineers. The city could probably negotiate with the local company for the purchase of its plant and there is a possibility that the city might try to condemn the plant by eminent domain. White said, although he added that the law on this question is not established and such a procedure would be new in Pennsylvania.

"Certainly the council would not undertake to sell the bonds until it had assured itself that the plant might be purchased or built, nor until it had prepared definite plans and specifications."

White also said in the opinion that he had given council informally, and which has not yet been presented in council meeting, a resolution defining the procedure in order that assurance may be given to the public as to what the intention of the council is with respect to the electric light question.

Third Party May Develop

Politicians Foresee Probability Of Third Party In 1936 Election

'LEFTISTS' WILL BE CHIEF SUPPORTERS

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S Street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Politicians generally speak of a third party next year as seemingly inevitable—and maybe a fourth party.

White believes that that is correct. "Nevertheless," White's opinion says "there is no provision in the act to allow bonds to be issued on any other credit than that of a tax levy."

Still, there is a faction which makes it seem possible. For example, I recently talked with Col. William C. Harlow, a retired marine officer, who already is campaigning for South Carolina's senatorial nomination in 1936, as an anti-New Deal Democrat.

Senators Harry F. Byrd and Carter Glass of Virginia and Senators Josiah W. Bailey, of North Carolina and Walter F. George of Georgia also surely classify as Democratic anti-New Dealers, who might gravitate into a fourth party group.

There are some northerners, too, who might be conceivable recruits. WHO 'LEFTISTS' ARE Anti-administrators in the north, however, appear to be mainly leftists—more so than the administration if that is leftist at all.

The leftists are of two kinds: 1. Industrial folk, as in Rhode Island, who think that processing taxation is increasing their living costs without increasing their incomes. To this element organized labor has been added recently, on the ground that work relief rates have endangered wage scales.

2. Farmers who contend that processing taxation has not done them much good.

FORMIDABLE COMBINATION

Processing taxation has, indeed, benefitted certain cotton planters—not all: there are areas in which the landlords have grabbed all the benefits, to the prejudice of the sharecroppers.

In the pork belt, however, the producers charge that the processors have grabbed all the benefits. The processors are not satisfied, either. Neither are the consumers whose prices for the pork chops and bacon have been boosted—but not their ability to pay for their bacon and chops.

Producers added to processors and consumers added to producers and processors with labor discontented too, makes quite a formidable combination.

EVERY ALIGNMENT SPLIT

The mess is unforseeably mixed up.

The southeast's so-called "better class" (as witness Senator Carter Glass' position against all mass opinion in Virginia) is wholly contrary to current sentiment in that area—and yet Glass is strong. Senator La Follette (a Wisconsin progressive) is pro-"soak everybody" on the taxation program.

Senators Borah and Norris (respectively of Idaho and Nebraska), old-time "buddies" of La Follette, break with him on the "soak everybody" program.

Every alignment is split. It would not necessarily take a 1-2-3-4 split to throw the 1936 presidential election into the house of representatives.

A 1-2-3-4 split could do it.

Not a few politicians think that this may occur.

With more than two tickets in the field presumably President Roosevelt will have a plurality, but he may not have a majority over all—which is required.

Even so, it would seem as if he should have a plurality in the house of representatives.

Doubtless But a plurality is not a majority. Suppose some of the Democrats of the complexion of Senators Glass, Byrd, Bailey, or George or some such Republicans as Senators Borah, Norris or Nye, should swing over to one of the other classifications.

In such an event a small flop easily could decide the presidency.

Dr. Greist Could Get No Substitute

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., August 17.—Inability of Dr. Henry William Greist, superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital at Barrow, Alaska, to get a vacation substitute made it possible for him to be of service to a grief-stricken nation mourning the death of Will Rogers, noted philosopher, and Wiley Post, noted pilot, killed in an airplane crash in the far north.

The bodies of the noted pair were turned over to Dr. Greist until their removal to the states.

"Dr. and Mrs. Greist were entitled to their furlough this year but when no one could be found to take their places, they decided to remain on the field and carry on their medical and evangelistic work," according to Mrs. Ralph H. Mort, president of the Portland Presbyterian. Three Portland societies in the Presbyterian assist in supporting the Barrow hospital.

Conference Is Now In Progress

Annual Missionary Gathering Begins At New Wilmington

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, August 17.—New Wilmington's usual placidity was enlivened somewhat yesterday when a host of delegates to the Thirtieth Annual New Wilmington Missionary Conference gathered for the initial meeting on Friday night.

Nearly five hundred strong the delegates descended upon the town for the annual event and today New Wilmington is throbbing with a renewed life. Everything was in preparation for the advent of the delegates and Willis McGill, manager, stated today that everything was going along nicely.

"Dizzy" Dean Wins His 20th, Defeats Giants

Great "Dizzy" Gives Giants But Three Hits In 1 To 0 Victory

TIGERS-YANKS BOTH DEFEATED

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—It is futile to compare Dizzy Dean with Christy Mathewson, Doc White, Cy Young, Joe Wood, Walter Johnson, Ed Walsh, Rube Waddell, Addie Joss or any of the other great pitchers of a bygone era.

He may or may not be as good or better than any or all of these; suffice it to say, he's tops today, and that's good enough. In fact, as the Cardinals will tell you, and the Giants will attest, that's the pitch.

"Dizzy" Wins 20th
He's tough enough to beat at any time but when the chips are down, as they were yesterday, he's a virtually invincible. The man has everything—blinding speed, a great curve, a corking change of pace, splendid control, a fine pitching head and supreme confidence in himself. That's lot of adjectives, but he rates them all.

In beating Hal Schumacher, 1 to 0 to even the series at two-all, he left the Giants down with three hits and over the last five innings when he really had to bear down, not a Giant reached first base. Boys, there's pitching as is pitching.

Going into the ninth, the game was a scoreless tie, with each team having made three hits, but where Dizzy was in need of little help, Hal needed and got a sensational support from all his buddies.

The Cards finally crashed through in the ninth on Martin's hit and steal, Frisch's hit and Medwick's fly.

And what do you think the great Dean remarked as he walked off the field? Just this: "I wasn't feeling so chipper today or I might have showed those Giants something!"

Three Giants Behind
Thanks to Dizzy, the Cards today are only three games back of the Giants, instead of five they would have been had he been beaten.

That was his 20th victory of the year to add to his 30 of last year, 20 of the year before and 18, the year before that, his first in the majors. Quite a man, this Dizzy, even if he admits it himself.

George Earnshaw and Charley Root, oldtimers respectively of the Dodgers and Cubs, also hooked up in a neat pitching duel with Long George getting the Duke 2-1. All the runs were homers. Hack made one for the Cubs and Cucinello and Bucher for the Dodgers.

The Reds cooled off the Braves who've been rather hot by taking a pair, 3-1 and 4-3.

Yanks Defeated
The Yanks might have picked up a game on the Tigers but blew their chance when Johnny Allen was kicked out of the game when the Yanks were leading 3 to 0. Hot-headed Johnny's successors were something more than futile and the Indians won out, 8 to 5.

With Bump Hadley operating, the Senators knocked off Auker and the Tigers, 8 to 1, Hadley yielding only four hits.

West Ferrell, Red Sox veteran, who ranks second only to Dizzy Dean, made a gallant but losing attempt to snare his 20th win but went down to defeat before Young Kennedy of White Sox in 14 innings 4 to 3.

And the Browns with Sugar Cain twirling against his former buddies downed the A's 7 to 2.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Ted Yarosz has been offered 40 per cent of the gross receipts to fight either Lou Brouillard, Babe Risko or Frank Battaglia in a middleweight title fight at Pittsburgh this summer.

Ed McCloskey, former tennis captain of Carnegie Tech, died at Bear Valley from injuries received in an auto accident. He was a former fullback on the Beaver High grid team.

Katherine Stammers, Britain, defeated Helen Jacobs, United States, 2-1, in the competition for the Wightman cup International trophy at Forest Hills, N. Y., yesterday.

Baer's Hands Must Be Right

New York State Boxing Commission To Make Sure Hands Are Okay Before Battle

WILL MEET LOUIS IN SEPTEMBER

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Max Baer, America's most beautiful prize fighter, may be of a mind to repeat his "bad hands" repertoire, with and without the simpering, but this time he'll have to do it before his meeting with Joe Louis, the one-shot man, in late September. Afterwards won't do. That, anyhow, was the story today of boxing commission Bill Brown, who said that, if Baer's hands are wrong there will be no afterward owing to the fact that there will be no beforehand and, in fact, no prize fight.

He was speaking of course, strictly for New York but that hardly operated as a demerit, since the $750,000 fight is tentatively scheduled for resident jurisdiction at the Yankee Stadium. The last time Mr. Baer suffered his public to gaze upon him, he fell into a profound reverie for fifteen rounds and boxing commission feels, it appears to see that if this ever happens, it will be premature.

Two Examination
Therefore, says commissioner Brown, there will be two examinations of the young man's sensitive anatomy, specifically and with minute attention to the hands. The first is to take place in the presence of newspapermen when formal application is made to hold the match here. The second examination will be made two days before the fight. If, at that time, there is any question of imperfections, the fight will be cancelled and all money returned to the promoters. "And," adds the commissioner, bitterly, "if anything is the matter, Mr. Baer will hold the bag this time."

Teddy Yarosz To Defend His Title

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—Ted Yarosz, recognized in Pennsylvania as middleweight champion of the world, today was considering an offer of 40 per cent of the receipts to meet Lou Brouillard, Babe Risko or Frank Battaglia in a title fight this summer.

The offer was made at a conference between Phil Jacks and Ray Babcock, local promoters, and McCracken, Yarosz's manager. The promoters left no doubt they considered Foutts' demand of a $35,000 guarantee something of a pipe dream and that if he was not willing to accept the 40 per cent they stood ready to withdraw from any attempts to arrange a title defense.

Tucker was on the mound for the Ice Men.

City Playground All Stars Stage Exciting Contest

American Leaguers Troupe National League Team, 15-2, Friday

Gaston park Friday afternoon took on the aspect of a world series, when the National and American Leagues All Stars of the city playgrounds battled in the first of a three-game series. The American leaguers romped off the field with an impressive 15-2 victory.

Several hundred persons watched the cream of the leagues battle it out for supremacy. The contest was replete with action, despite the lopsided score. The American leaguers took an early lead which they maintained throughout. Malone with four bingles, including a triple, was outstanding at the plate for the winners. Latteman also clouted a three-bagger for the American league team.

Preby, Guido and Altman collected four hits for the losers. Next three hits, Ted DeRoss was the losing hurler. "Gabby" DeCaprio, Frank Coppel, and Lee Giardo connected for home run drives. Charles Rozak and Lou Ross made several circus catches of hard hit liners.

The same two teams will play the second game of the current five-game series Sunday at the B. & O. Field.

Radiators Top Unions 3 To 1

Crowd Of 3,000 Fans At B. & O. Field See Bishara Outpitch Frank Babs

RADIATORS NEAR TO THIRD FLAG

National Radiators soft ball team with Norman "Cannonball" Bishara in rarest of form, drove another clinching nail in the New Castle soft ball league championship race at the B. & O. field last night by taking a 3 to 1 victory. Bishara gave the Unions but three hits and fanned six men. Babs also gave three hits and fanned five men.

A crowd of 3,000 fans, the largest to ever witness a soft ball game in New Castle, jammed the B. & O. field to capacity. It was one of the best games of the year and a pitchers' battle from the start to the last inning. The Rads scored in the first, third and ninth to win the game.

Frank Babs had poor support from the Unions, the Brewers making five errors. Norman Bishara was given good support with the Rads having but one error. Earl Riley and Bert Evans handled a fine game as umpires.

The Unions' only run came in the fifth inning on a double by Texie Richards and a double by Summers. Tip Richards, Tex Richards and Summers had the hits for the Unions. For the Rads, Joe Mazzeri, Fornataro and Bishara had the only hits. The defeat put the Unions out of the running.

It was the 12th league victory for Bishara and the fourth defeat for Frank Babs. The Rads and Unions series is now even with two victories apiece. A series is being arranged between these two teams. The Rads have won 29 games in the two halves for a fine record.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Rads . . . 101 000 001—3 3 1
Unions . . . 000 010 000—1 3 5

Helen Jacobs Is Shocked By News From Helen Moody

(International News Service)
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Helen Jacobs today was "shocked beyond words" when told that Mrs. Helen Willis Moody had announced her retirement from further tennis tournaments this year.

Miss Jacobs seemed absolutely stunned when told the bad news. She had set her heart on reversing her recent defeat at the hands of her sister Californian at Wimbledon. "Oh," she moaned. "Goodness, that's terrible."

A granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Miss Mary Adeline Prentice, works as office nurse and secretary in a doctor's office in New York City.

Mahoning A. A. and Sewickley will clash Sunday afternoon at Centennial field in a benefit for the family of the late Sankey McCullough, according to Nick Cangie, manager of the local Lawrence County league club.

The Sewickley aggregation, piloted by Harry Day, former athletic director of the New Castle Y is reputed to be one of the fastest baseball organizations in western Pennsylvania.

Sewickley's lineup is crammed with college and sandlot stars and with Paul McCullough, ace of local pitchers hurling for Mahoning and reinforced by classy fielding the game ought to be one of the best Sunday hereabouts.

Sankey McCullough played with Mahoning He alternated in the infield and outfield and in every game he was looked to for some thrill and in most cases he came through either with classy fielding or deadly hitting.

The A. S. & T. P. played the East Side Civics of Youngstown recently and the committee which was in charge of that game turned over a neat sum to the family which met the funeral expenses of the late Sankey.

Inasmuch as Sunday's clash is a benefit it is probable that Centennial field will be crowded.

On Court House Hill

Yesterday was the last day for filing executions on property to be sold by the sheriff at the September term of court. The list will embrace 31 properties. This is the largest list, with one exception, since the sheriff assumed office. It is partly due to the fact that there was only one sale in August. There were several writs filed that have been settled. One of them was a Home Owners Loan execution, the first to be issued here.

Many people are wondering why the state did not receive any bids for the full $50,000,000 tax anticipation loan note issue. Here is the reason. The bill contained no sinking fund provision. It went the full legislative route without anybody noticing the omission, which would seem to indicate that legislators are careless in reading bills, and not very alert in catching errors. But the bankers caught it. For some time prior to the actual call for bids the treasury and bankers conferred on plans for accumulating the money to call the notes May 31, 1937. Bankers wanted a sinking fund of $5,000,000 monthly for the last ten months of the issue was to run. That arrangement wasn't satisfactory to the state because of uneven tax receipts. The renewed offer of the bonds will carry the treasury's promise to put away a varying but specified amount each month, which is the closest to a formal sinking fund which those in charge have been able to figure out.

Stock Market
Pushes Ahead
Gains Run From Fractions
To Points In Strong
Week-End MarketBy LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The stock market pushed ahead in good style today with gains running from fractions to a point. While profit-taking was in evidence during the greater part of the session, it was easily absorbed and the undertone of the list remained firm.

Utility shares were again taken in good volume under the leaders of American Water Works, which worked a point higher to a new top for the year. Consolidated Gas, Public Service, North American and other power and light favorites gained fractionally.

The pace for the rail shares was set by New York Central, which ran up a point to new high for the year and more than 100 per cent above its year's low at 12 1/2. Atchafalaya, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and other carrier shares scored smaller gains.

Auburn was the bright spot in the motor shares, moving up a point to a new top, while General Motors and Chrysler merely held steady around their previous closing levels.

Oils were improved fractionally, as were the food, tobacco, chemical and specialty shares.

Steel shares moved counter to the general trend as U. S. Smelting declined fractionally.

Y. P. Picnic
At Wise's Grove

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 17.—Wise's Grove on the Ellwood-Cascade road was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when one hundred and six members of the Young People's council of District 7 of Beaver county Sunday school association assembled there for a picnic.

The following churches were represented: Knox Presbyterian, Run U. P., Concord M. E., North Sewickley Presbyterian, Providence Baptist and Hickory Knell Church of God.

The affair started just right with a picnic supper at 7 o'clock being the initial feature. A period of group singing followed with James Tosh of New Brighton as the leader.

Rev. Frederick of New Castle and a group of young people from his church also contributed special music. Rev. Frederick delivered a most worthwhile and inspiring address on the subject, "Christian Youth Building A New World."

William Wise, a young people's worker in the First Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh was the next speaker and the topic of his address was: "What Is My Job?"

Mrs. Frank McGarret and Mrs. L. H. Proffitt, county young people's officers, were also present and they each contributed short messages. A candle lighting service which had been planned had to be cancelled on account of the inclement weather.

The next regular meeting of the council will take place on Tuesday evening, September 3, at the Camp Run church.

A full measure of credit for the successful affair is due the president of the council, Miss Dorothy Nye, who made all the arrangements.

BIRTHDAY EVENT

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 17.—Members of the Rock Point group delightfully surprised Miss Mary Mar-garet Matheny when they gathered at her home on the Ellwood-Wampum road to aid in celebrating the occasion of her birthday anniversary last evening.

The twenty guests in attendance spent the evening in a pleasant informal manner with games and contests of a variety as the popular diversions.

At a late hour the group assembled about a glowing bonfire where the roasting of wieners and marshmallows was enjoyed. An added feature of this period was the serving of cake and ice cream by Mrs. Joseph Matheny.

HAPPY HOUR CLASS
ENJOYS HAM FRY

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 17.—Ewing Park was the scene yesterday of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church Happy Hour class ham fry with 40 of the class participating.

A general social time was had after the dinner with several games and contests enjoyed. The affair was a complete success and much of the credit for its favorable result must go to Mesdames John Wehman, Rankin Steele, Roy Meehan and Victor Markle.

Circus Night Held
At Camp Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 17.—One hundred happy, cheerful and gay boys frolicked in a novel program known as "Circus Night" at Camp Ellwood near here on the Slippery Rock creek.

The boys and campers put on a circus and carnival, which for fun and joy was the equal of any of the big time circuses. With dwarfs, elephants, rough and fancy riders, sideshows, wild men, bright lights, fireworks, barkers, and clowns, the whole camp were an unmitigated carnival air for about four hours.

This circus is one of the many big events for the boys at the camp who spend eight weeks of the summer here. The lads hail from all the surrounding territory, including Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Youngstown, Detroit, Munhall, Aspinwall, Sharpsburg, Greenville, Indiana, Washington, and a number of the other cities in this part of the state.

Musical, rifle, riding and swimming receive considerable attention from the boys. The camp possesses a membership in the National Rifle Association, enabling the boys to compete on the rifle range with youngsters of their own age over the entire country. The camp stable includes a dozen riding horses, upon which the Ellwood riders take short hour rides as well as all-day rides as far as from twelve to fifteen miles.

A fast twilight league is functioning in tennis, football, woodcraft, leathercraft, photography, archery, canoeing, wrestling, boxing, basketball, dodge ball and speed ball. There is some stiff competition in these events.

The camp which is under the direction of Homer Williams, of Youngstown, O., is literally sprinkled with athletic stars, as its counselor staff. Among these are Armand Nicolai, former Duquesne University grid captain, Thurman "Dutch" Croft, co-captain of Carnegie Tech last year, who is Ellwood High's new assistant coach, Michael Wargo, swimming coach at Slippery Rock State Teacher's College, Charles Ruch, of University of Pittsburgh, Coach C. Morgan, of Greenville, Harold McClure, of Greenville, and Ralph Kelly of Sharpsville.

How To Get Poor.
A Request To Rabbis.
Refrigerators In Green-land.
Lady Astor On Birth Control.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THERE ARE ways of getting rich

and ways of getting poor. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his father knew them both. Mr. Rockefeller, Senior, got rich because he was "smarter" than his competitors, and then gave away four or five hundred million dollars to science, education, etc.

John O. Jr., has just sold seventy-seven million dollars worth of shares in various Standard Oil companies, and has given the proceeds to charitable and scientific organizations. An excellent example, but he might need the money some day. "Share-the-wealth" gentlemen might decide to change it to "take-all" and then make them give you an "I-O-U."

DR. A. D. ALBRIGHT, of Knoxville, Tenn., offers to send you, prepaid, a fine turkey for your Thanksgiving dinner if you will cite him a message in the Bible that says "the Jews are God's (or the Lord's) chosen people."

Will some learned rabbi who sees this send to Mr. Albright the information desired?

Mr. Albright doubtless would send the "East Tennessee turkey" to anyone that might enlighten him. His address is Room 208, Empire Building, Knoxville, Tenn.

INTELLIGENT BUSINESS men will want to know that Arthur Kudner, now president of the very able firm of Erwin, Wasey, is starting an advertising business of his own.

Mr. Kudner combines the physical size and business ability of C. C. Meigs, of the Chicago American, with the innocent expression of Henry Ward Beecher, and the keen restless mind of Machiavelli. When it comes to transferring business from somebody else's "line" to that of his client, Mr. Kudner is efficient.

ADVERTISING was never more important than now. Prosperity comes when people buy; people buy when advertising is done intelligently.

To sell electrical refrigerators to the Eskimos, apply to Arthur Kudner.

LADY ASTOR, of Virginia, who taught British women that they could go to Parliament and be useful, is criticized by American friends on the assumption that she is violently in favor of birth control.

Lady Astor, who has a right to express an opinion, having produced six infants before talking about birth control, says she favors reasonable supervision, to protect "working-class mothers who endure horrible suffering when they have children too frequently, or when they try to prevent them by operations." That seems reasonable.

DEMOCRATS, "sounding out sentiment" on the proposition to change the National Constitution, are preparing excellent cartoon material for the next Republican campaign. One cartoon will show Democrats sailing the raging main-board the ship's compass labeled "Constitution."

Another cartoon will reproduce, with variations, the Punch cartoon, "Dropping the Pilot," which showed the young German Kaiser getting rid of the experienced, old Bismarck. Democrats will be surprised to find how much sentiment has grown up around that Constitution.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT signs the "social security bill," and whatever else may happen, as long as he lives, he will remember with happiness the day that he used his power to give pensions to neglected old people. After he goes, the old will remember him with gratitude. (Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Potato Growing To Be Regulated

Congressman Eckert Of This District Votes In Favor Of Measure

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—Representative Charles L. Eckert of Beaver voted this week for the bill passed by the House of Representatives which places production of potatoes under control of the federal government.

The measure had already been approved by the Senate, but got through the House by the close ballot of 173 to 165. It will become law as soon as signed by the President.

The bill vests the secretary of agriculture with power to tell each farmer in the country how many potatoes he may grow for sale. Only those producing less than five bushels are exempt. Farmers growing for sale more potatoes than their quota allows must pay a federal tax of 45 cents per bushel on all potatoes sold in excess of the quota restrictions.

In effect, the bill in operation will subject all potato farmers to the mandate of the secretary of agriculture. Each farmer will be allowed to grow and sell. If he sells five bushels or less he is not subject to the bill. He can grow and sell tax free only as many potatoes as the agriculture secretary specifies in his quota. If he sells more potatoes than allowed in the quota, then he must pay to Uncle Sam a penalty assessment of 45 cents per bushel for those potatoes in excess of his quota.

The bill was vigorously assailed by Republicans and many Democrats as undiluted dictatorial control.

Republicans To Rally At Farrell

U. S. Senator Dickinson Of Iowa, Foe Of New Deal, To Be Speaker

Under the auspices of the Mercer County Young Republicans' Club, a huge Republican rally will be held at Farrell City Park August 29, when the club holds its annual reunion.

U. S. Senator L. J. Hemphill of Beaver Falls, state president of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, and Hon. George H. Bender of Cleveland, will speak.

U. S. Senator James J. Davis will be present if his physician permits. Senator Dickinson is an outstanding figure in the Republican party and is spoken of as a possible candidate for the presidency in 1936. He served his state of Iowa for 12 years as a congressman, and in 1930 was elected to the United States Senate. In 1932 he delivered the keynote address at the convention of the Republican party.

Thousands Get More On Doles Than If Employed

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Thousands of Philadelphia families are receiving more in dole payments than they would obtain if their potential breadwinners were given unskilled jobs under the new $4,000-$6,000 WPA program, it was revealed today.

Large families on relief here are now receiving from $60 to $80 a month from the county relief board, but WPA provides only $55 a month in wages for Philadelphia workers in the unskilled class.

These figures were pointed to by relief officials as the basis of the assertion of Dorothy C. Kahn, executive director of the relief board that low WPA wages would have to be "supplemented by direct relief."
